Students, Alumni, Face Full Calendar For Homecoming

Colorful Parade Spices Saturday's Schedule

BYU's homecoming queen and Miss America will be feature attractions of the "Flaming Fifties" homecoming parade Saturday at 9:30 a.m.

More than forty floats, ten bands and six marcing units are combining for the two-hour long parade. Leading the group will be Miss America, the AFROTC band and a Marine color guard.

A reviewing stand will be set up on Center street for the judges and other dignitaries. Four of the forty floats entered will be awarded prizes. They will be judged according to beauty and originality, and adherence to the theme, "Flaming Fifties." A grand prize will be awarded the most outstanding flots.

Blue Keys will direct traffic and the freshman council will pass out parade programs to the crowd. Some of the rules which all entries have been asked to observe are:

1. Be in position promptly at 8:30 a.m.
2. Driver must maintain spacing indicated by parade monitors.
3. LDS standards must be upheld throughout the appearance of the float and persons riding it.

The parade will assemble at 3 W. and Center streets, travel up University ave. to 8 N., and then continue to upper campus.

Miss America Appears On 'Follies' Tomorrow

Queen Colleen Kay Hutchins, Miss America 1952, will highlight the "Fieldhouse Follies," Friday evening, when she makes a personal appearance.

She will present her interpretation of Shakespeare's "Elizabeth the Queen," which she gave in Atlantic City to win the nation-wide crown.

A royal reception will await her when she arrives at the airport in Salt Lake Friday afternoon. She will be met by our own Homecoming queen, Cherie Marcil, her attendants, the studentbody officers, President Wilkinson, Mark Benson, chairman, and other members of the homecoming committee. Following interviews by press and radio, a motor cavalcade with police escort will travel to Provo. Previous to the evening pep rally, the royal foursome will be feted at a special banquet.

Special feature of the "Fieldhouse Follies" will be the finals in the quartet and trio competition. The two winners, to be selected Friday night by off-campus judges, will be presented with handsome trophies by Homecoming queen, Cherie Marcil.

At 10 p.m., following the pep rally, a torchlight parade will form at the fieldhouse.

Queen's Coronation, Assembly Ignites the 'Flaming Fifties'

Lovely Cherie Marcil was officially crowned queen of Homecoming at today's assembly.

The assembly, directed by Ruth Ellen May, was a musical production depicting the culture, recreation, and spirit characteristic of the wildfire growth of the BYU in the "Flaming Fifties," Assembly committee members included Margaret Doxey, rehearsals, Los Angeles, Calif.; Jo Oveson, properties, Pendleton, Ore.; and Pat Thomas, tryouts, San Bernardino, Calif.

Tuesday evening, President Ernest L. Wilkinson, Dean A. K. Romney, Counselor Lillian Booth, Dr. Harold G. Clark, the studentbody officers, the Homecoming committee, and others paid tribute to the queen and her attendants at a banquet. During the evening, Keith Orme, on behalf of the studentbody, presented Cherie with a rhinestone necklace, and her attendants with bracelets.

At the Fieldhouse Follies tomorrow at 8 p.m., Queen Cherie will award the trophies to the final winners in the quartet and trio competition. She and her attendants, along with Miss America and the Y Cougar, will then lead the torchlight parade to the street dance and celebration on Center street.

Climax of the queen's reign will be her presentation at the Saturday evening dance, themed "Echoing Embers," to be held in the Joseph Smith auditorium and social hall.

Homecoming Ball Ends Festivities

"Echoing Embers" is the theme of the annual Homecoming dance to be held Saturday at 9 p.m. in the Joseph Smith ballroom and social hall. This unusual theme, aside from being in harmony with the general theme of Homecoming, signifies the past achievements and the future potentialities of Brigham Young University.

The dance will be a heels and hose affair, according to chairman Peggy Wood, Ogden. Admission will be $1 per couple. Music will be furnished by Ardean Watts in the J. S. ballroom, and Bob Evans' orchestra in the social hall.

Rerun of 'Our Town' Billed Monday

Due to popular demand, Thornton Wilder's drama of American life, "Our Town," will be presented on Monday evening at 8:15 in the Joseph Smith auditorium.

This follow-up performance of the play which was staged in College Hall last week is in the nature of an experiment to try out the lighting system of the Smith building to determine the possibility of holding future productions there.

WELCOME HOME ALUMNI

It is a distinct pleasure to welcome our illustrious alumni. We hope that you will feel at home and join with us in the festivities of the next two days.

Brigham Young University is proud of your achievements in the fields of science, religion, industry, education and government. As your renown spreads, it reflects favorably upon our cherished university, and in turn contributes to its increasing greatness in a grand cycle of progress. And, we who remain here feel ample gratification for the efforts of the past.

By way of report to those who have come to look over this progress we can point to growing greatness on every hand. Certainly the physical campus is growing in beauty and facilities and expanse. The new Science Building and Fieldhouse are unexcelled in the West and are being used to the fullest.

There is another "new look" on the campus of which we are proud—the Air Force ROTC unit. We are eager to serve our nation in the preparation of trained men for the national defense.

We are happy to announce that the enrollment for the autumn quarter is 5200, a new record and an increase of twelve per cent over last year. The cumulative total this year should reach 6000. Major General William E. Hall of the Fourth Air Force, on an inspection trip to this campus, said this is the only university he knows of with an enrollment increase. These striking figures are greatly significant that Brigham Young is becoming recognized for excellence, and that it has a definite role in the Church.

We invite you to join us in the task of making BYU greater in achievement and service, and with your help it will become the leading university of the West.

Now, join in the activities of the occasion and we wish you a pleasant Homecoming.

Sincerely,

Ernest L. Wilkinson
President.

All Studentbody, Alumni May Buy Class Rings Says Legislative Council

Class rings, previously available to seniors only, will be on sale for all students and any member of the Alumni Association in good standing, this year.

The decision was made by the legislative council Monday in their first official session under new statutes.

Suggestion was made that a franchise for sale of the ring be granted to a Provo commercial firm in order to make them readily accessible to all who want to buy. Mark Money, studentbody business manager, was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate the possibilities. Committee members are Lee Stratford, Glade Tragaskis, Ken Howard, and Myron Walker.

Y Mountain Problem

No organization will have the privilege of using Y mountain for any lettering or lighting of group insignias other than the lighting of the Y by I.K.'s this year. The council voted unanimously to sustain a motion to that effect introduced by the executive council.

Student organizations desiring to schedule events on the night of a studentbody function must send their representative before the legislative council to ask permission. An affirmative vote by a three-fourths majority of the council will be necessary to have the request granted.

The council granted requests of three student organizations, Sigma Pi Sigma, Delta Phi, and Gamma Tau, to hold events in the near future on nights of studentbody activities. The council warned, however, that their decisions were made in view of the fact that there had been no definite statements made before the organizations had their plans well underway. They stressed that the granting of special privileges will not be a common practice.

Off to a Good Start

Student government at Brigham Young University should be efficient and effective this year if the first official meeting under new statutes Monday can be taken as an example.

The council has already indicated they are truly conscious that they are representing the entire studentbody. President Orme has extended an invitation to any students who wish to "sit in" on council proceedings. The meetings are held in the Maeser Assembly with the entire balcony section available for student seating.

Minutes of council meetings are typed the following day, and are posted in a binder in the studentbody office. Again, anyone is welcome to check the records for anything they want to know concerning the meetings. All problems are carefully discussed before voting is done. Let's examine for instance, the three problems discussed in the Monday meeting.

Class Ring Sales Extended

First, the problem of extending class ring sales to the entire studentbody and alumni was considered. There was careful weighing of facts both for and against the proposition. Finally the group decided that the advantages of making rings available to more people far outweighed the disadvantages. However, when the problem arose concerning the grant of a franchise for ring sales to a downtown firm, the issue was considered important enough to justify appointment of a committee to uncover the details.

Second, the problem of individual organizations scheduling functions on nights of studentbody activities arose. Three organizations had already scheduled events in conflict with studentbody functions, but realizing that the organizations involved had acted before the council made a definite statement, the body decided to grant special privileges in those cases. Again the circumstances were considered, and justice in the eyes of the legislative body was rendered.

No Signs on Y Mountain

Third, the case of student groups lettering and lighting emblems on Y mountain came before the group. After weighing the problem of erosion as explained by the Forest Service, the council decided that preservation of the block Y was much more important than the campaign slogans and publicity stunts of various campus organizations.

Unfortunately, one social unit had its insignia plastered in paper across the mountainside Tuesday morning. It is reasonable to assume, however, that they will be pardoned, since they couldn't possibly have been aware of the ruling before the infraction occurred.

The council indicated that they will act with justice in all cases, but by their actions they also showed that there will be firm enforcement of the University law.

It looks like fame runs in families—the Hutchins and now the Rytting family. By some matter of odd coincidence two completely different and opposing school papers published miles apart, headlined the stories of brother and sister on the same day, Oct. 18. The brother, Lorry Rytting, (last year's UNIVERSE editor) was featured in the BYU UNIVERSE in connection with its winning two All-American honor ratings in 1950-51, while his sister, Bonnie, walked away with the position of studentbody secretary at the USAC. Because of this success, she earned headlines in the Student Life, USAC newspaper, on Oct. 18, the exact day of Lorry's writeup. Strange, eh!

Commendation . . .

Dear Editor,

As one of Uncle Sam's ex-peons ,I was inclined to look askance at the advent of the ROTC unit on the campus. Memories of the egotistical hot-shots who guided my steps through my military career, and of my feeling on the glorious day of discharge made me wonder if the campus were large enough for an active military organization and the veteran students.

I can now say that I think it's great! The boys came on the campus this fall fresh from their little puddles and proceeded to take over the classes. Their behavior made one wonder if there were any hope for them, and the poor instructors needed amplifiers in order to be heard in the classes. After a few short weeks, they have settled down, are giving the mentors all the attention that can be spared from the coeds, and you can even hear an occasional 'sir' when they speak to a professor. So, if the ROTC is responsible for any of these changes, I'm all for the ROTC.

Homecoming 1951: A Huge Success As Remembered Fifty Years Hence

by Earl McBride

Well, Futurus, Homecomings these days just don't have quite the oomph, or the fire we used to have way back in 1951. They had a great year, an active studentbody, and a fiery Homecoming.

Masterminding the gala affair was Mark Benson, who was well-groomed for the maddening responsibility by the Junior Prom in '50.

Let me tell you—the Flaming Fifties was an era well worth remembering. The old Physical Science building made its debut, with the Fieldhouse tagging along right behind it the following year. BYU won its first national basketball championship, so we were down-right proud of our athletes when many other universities were saturated with scandals.

Miss America

During the Flaming Fifties Homecoming, we had some real royalty among us. The "Queen of American Beauty" (Miss America of 1951) Colleen Kay Hutchins gave her Atlantic City prize-winning reading, "Elizabeth the Queen," to a cheering crowd.

You remember hearing about President Wilkinson don't you? He was inaugurated into his thankless job the same year AFROTC was added to the curriculum. How he ever stood the guff dished out by our rootin'-tootin' studentbody, I've never figured out to this day.

No Jet Floats

You'll have to remember, Futurus, that in those days, floats couldn't be built on ultra-sonic spaceships. . . the designers had to stick strictly to terra firma. Even jet engines were still in their infancy, and atomic scientists had barely scratched the surface of the nuclear world.

Regardless of being handicapped to auto-drawn floats, without colorful strato-crackers, BYU had plenty of good old-fashioned spirit.

I could go on for hours telling about the great school we had at the Y in '51. It was the finest university in the world; there was no argument about it—we admitted it. In fact, I've yet to see (and I've been looking for a long while) a more loyal bunch of Alumni, or more exuberant gang of students during any one decade, before or since.

AWS President Afton Ash Is Also Noted Thespian

This year's president of AWS is Miss Afton Ash. The attractive Springville girl has established an enviable record during her 21 years.

Standing 5'3½" tall, she is a classic example of the old adage that "dynamite comes in small packages."

Besides being studentbody president at Springville High, she was—among other things—a member of Pep Club, Student Council, a Thespian and editor of the school paper.

AFTON ASH

Continuing her tradition of versatile activity at the Y, Miss Ash is in White Keys, Nautilus, YC's, and (obviously) AWS. This heavy load of extracurricular activities doesn't seem to hurt her academic standing, for she is still an "A" student.

She is majoring in speech and minoring in English (possibly may teach in secondary schools). True to the faith of Thespis, her dramatic capability was recently seen, when she played the part of Emily Webb in BYU's production of "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder.

As though this weren't enough, Miss Ash works in the Registrar's office, and then goes home at night to all the routine household chores intrinsic in the time-worn institution of "batching."

Living with a group of exuberant girls (five in number), she does not claim a dull home life. The gals evidently have chronic alarm clock trouble, before starting off the daily grind of cooking, washing dishes, and so on.

Hobbies galore fall within the boundaries of her special interests. She loves to sew, and makes her own clothes. Hiking, dancing, swimming, are also among her favorites.

Putting in a plug for Associated Women, Miss Ash said that currently, AWS is in the process of planning the Preference Ball. Though no based on the traditional Sadie Hawkins Day idea, the ball covers the same ground only in a more charming way.

Foucault Pendulum Explained In One Syllable Words

The Foucault Pendulum is one of the best evidences that the earth rotates on its axis, according to Wayne B. Hales, professor of physics and mathematics.

The pendulum is now completely installed in the lobby of the Physical Science building. It extends from the lobby floor to the observation tower at the top of the building.

The principle of the pendulum, Prof. Hales, explained, was first discovered by Professor Jean Foucault, a French physicist, in 1851.

Bronze Bob

The pendulum bob is made of bronze and weighs 176 pounds. It is suspended from a point above by means of a 42-foot steel wire. The only grip the earth has on this great weight is through this steel wire.

As the pendulum vibrates back and forth, the earth rotates under it. If it were suspended over the North pole, the earth would rotate under the pendulum from west to east every 24 hours. The pendulum would appear, to one standing on the earth, to rotate westward during this time.

Rotation Period

At any place other that the North pole, the period of rotation is 24 hours divided by the sine of the angle of latitude. The latitude of Provo, Utah, is 40 degrees. The sine of 40 degrees is .64. Therefore, 24 divided by .64 is 37, the number of hours required for the pendulum bob to make a complete revolution.

In other words, Prof. Hales explained, it requires 37 hours at this latitude for the earth to rotate under this bronze ball. It appears to move westward as the earth moves eastward through one of these divisions each hour.

Students viewing the pendulum at hour intervals, Prof. Hales said, will note that the pendulum bob has appeared to move westward exactly one of these divisions.

Little Effort and Imagination Makes Old Dress Look New

by Gloria Wallis

Well gals, all ready for that first big formal dance of the year that calls for the filmy net which has been in safe keeping at the back of the closet?

Sophomore Loan Fund and Preference Ball events are not far away and social units are on the verge of breaking forth with Invitationals. Let's see what you have in the line of formal attire as we browse through your campus closets. . .

Hmmmmm. . . can't you do anything 'bout that still-new pink chiffon? Have been wearing a net stole with it, to cover up bare shoulders, you know, but if a jacket or cape could be worked out 'twould save lots of stole clutching while dancin'.

Velveteen or velvet is a good mixer. Why not use this fabric in a short jacket. Good contrast with your pastel colors, too. Or if you prefer more lush here's another idea. . . gold metalic cloth. It's all the rage and what a sparkling contrast.

Easy to Make

Okeh, so you aren't a seamstress and didn't make it past Junior High Homemaking. Anyone can whip up a cape even if you only have a broken down treadle to work with. Follow these simple directions.

For lots of fullness cut out your cape in a full circle. For less fullness ,less circle. Got it? A narrow binding around the neckline and attach a narrow ribbon for tying. A narrow hem around the bottom of the caps and you have it! Next time you can try scallops or a saw-tooth effect.

Another idea some of you have tried on gowns with extremely low necklines. Fill in the yoke with net or marquisette. Cut a round high neckline and extend the yoke down to the low off-shoulder neckline. Doesn't change the lines of the gown at all and is simple as pie to do!

Imagination and Work

Still bewildered? Don't be, just go to work. Start snipping with those scissors, use lots of imagination, and presto! Just see what you've got! A slightly altered formal that looks every bit as good and one that you'll wear anytime anyplace and feel comfortable in. Got to keep those Y standards high, and gals, you're the ones to do it.

Just a sample of typical Y feminine beauty are Lenore Bennion and Naomi Bangerter both of Salt Lake City. All set for the initial formal of the year, they've topped their lovely gowns with pert jackets. Take one good look coeds, then go to work on your own.

FORMAL FARE—Lenore Bennion and Naomi Bangerter, both of Salt Lake City, show how formals can be suited to the individual by the addition of a small jacket.

Monday's Lyceum Now Postponed

The scheduled lecture of Lee Mortimer on the Brigham Young University lyceum series, Monday, has been postponed, according to Dr. Herald R. Clark, director.

Business duties in the East have made the appearance of the famed author-lecturer impossible on that date. Dr. Clark emphasized that the change was merely a postponement, and that Mr. Mortimer will appear on the series later in the season.

Classes Elect Representatives To BYU Legislative Council

Class representatives to the legislative council were elected during Thursday's class meetings. Two delegates and one alternate were selected from each class.

Senior class members chose Myron Walker, American Fork, and Sherm Sheffield, Kaysville, with Don Spencer, Riverton, as alternate. The juniors selected Ken Howard, Orem, and Carolyn Torgeson, Ogden, to represent them. They also decided on two alternates, Franklin Dailey and Sallie Duncan, Springville.

Jim Paramore, Provo, and Glade Tregaskis, American Fork, were elected by the sophomores, as was Marilyn Pond, Detroit, alternate. Dick Wells and Paul Ashton, Midvale, were the freshmen's choice, and Frank Canfield was named alternate.

This group of students, along with other members of the legislature, is the mainspring of the university student government.

Cats Prep For Game With League Leading Colags

by Al Halverson

Brigham Young's Cougars will take on the Colorado Aggies Saturday afternoon in the Homecoming game at the BYU stadium.

Thoroughly drubbed by the Denver Pioneers, 56-6, last Saturday, the Cats, who have yet to claw up a conference victory, are pawing and hissing for this one.

BYU is definitely out of the championship race, but they can still do plenty of upsetting in deciding the final title outcome. And after their surprise showing against top-touted Wyoming, all Skyline Eight clubs are only too aware of this fact.

As it now stands, Colorado has yet to lose a game in season play. Consequently they are leading the pack, with 2 wins and 1 tie (Utah State 20-20.)

Wyoming, running second in the Skyline loop, has won 3, lost 1, and tied 1. Utah is pacing third with 2 victories, 1 defeat, and no ties. Denver, the league leading point gainer (172 thus far) holds down fourth spot in the conference standings with 3 wins, 2 losses, and no ties.

Thus the teams enter the home stretch in an exciting race to the wire. BYU has done about as well as was expected according to pre-season predictions. They have come out of three conference scraps with a 2 game loss and a 1 game tie showing. However, the Cougars still have three games to go: Colorado A&M, Utah State, and New Mexico, all of which promise to be anything but push-overs for the Cats.

Chick Atkinson's boys have displayed some good hard playing despite the fact that they have scored only 32 points against their opponents' 83. And the Aggies appear to be their toughest grid battle left.

Last year the boys from Fort Collins skinned the Cougars 27-14. They have a strong team again this year and are picked by some sport writers to annex the conference crown. This game means a lot to Bob Davis and his aggregation, and should the Cougars upset predictions as they did two weeks ago, the Aggies' chances for the title will be shaved down considerably. Colorado A&M has four rough clashes facing them before season play ends.

BYU Game Ducats Now Available

DOWN the CLOTHES HATCH

BY BOB HATCH

Word of the BYU homecoming brings back memories. . .memories of the first time I saw her.

It was at the reform school homecoming (class of '39). Actually I don't recall having formally met her. I just opened my billfold and there she was. They called her carefree. She didn't care as long as it was free. Romance was in the air. My heart was in the clouds, and her hand was in my pocket. She was one of those shy, demure girls. You know, the kind you have to whistle at twice.

She had on something new in the way of wearing apparel. It showed everything but good taste. Naturally I was nattily clad in a complete outfit from Clark's, who draped my frame with a cashmere sweater and a pair of La Jolla Slacks.

But why should I talk about my love affairs when you have pulchritude out of your ears for homecoming this week-end? That long drink-of All American water Miss Colleen Hutchins is going to be on hand I understand, so I don't imagine anybody is going to be paying any attention to his dates this week-end.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

If you want Colleen to pay some attention to you though, I would suggest that you take your choice of the 14 bee-yoo-tiful colors in Stradavari sports shirts that Clark's have on their racks. 245 North University Ave., is your campus headquarters for homecoming. Remember that fact.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Understand BYU is really football mad this week. You've got cause to be after that Denver game, but don't give up the ship. Colorado A and M is only supposed to take the conference this year. And Utah State comes to town the following week. And they'll treat you nice.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Brand new feature for homecoming this year is going to be some vocalizing in quartet and trio competition between men's and women's units. Friend Dal Clark informs me. 40 entries already in for this big affair. Sounds great!

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

If you have any trouble recognizing the alumni from the studentbody this week-end, just check the parking lot. The alumni drive old cars like the faculty, and they're very easy to recognize next to an undergraduate's 1951 model.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Even think I'll drop down for homecoming. Like to see that classroom where I took Freshman English eight quarters in a row. Imagine it would still be the same. My same old desk, same old carvings on it, same old inkwell, same old shaving kit.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Football weather, kiddies, and that means time for a topcoat. If you haven't purchased a coat as per our campus guide suggestion, then why not gaze at the selection at Clark's. Warm, durable, long-lasting items in many fabrics, colors and weaves. . . just $47.50.

Happy Homecoming!

Cougar Hoopsters Hustle For Spot On Skyline Champ Squad

by Lawrence Bray

The Cougar basketball team, now practicing in the new fieldhouse, settled earnestly to work this week preparing for the coming season.

With the tang of football still in the air, the basketball team begins readying their defense of the National Invitational Tournament championship.

No eliminations have been posted as yet on the varsity squad, but the large frosh, or "B" squad has been cut twice. The men out for varsity ball are being put through their paces under the experienced eye of coach Stan Watts, but a cut will be necessary soon.

The fact that the fieldhouse is completed, or will be by the basketball season, should make things better all around. Not only will more fans get a chance to see the boys in action, but the boys should be able to play a better game.

They will be used to spacious floors, and it won't be such a change to play on other team's floors. Also, other Skyline teams cannot use the excuse that their style is cramped by BYU's floor.

It should be a better conference this year also. Not that a person could ask for much more, but with the addition of two new universities from the states of New Mexico and Montana, the teams will not have to play each other so often.

Pardoe Announces Cast For Next Play Production

Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" has been selected as the second presentation of the BYU speech department for 1951-52.

According to Mrs. Kathryn B. Pardoe, play director, the cast has been chosen and rehearsals are under way. Performances will begin November 27 and run nightly in College Hall through December 1. Each performance will begin at 8:15.

Cast of this "improbable farce" is made up of veteran BYU thespians; including Jane Anderson, Manti, as Edith, the maid; Shirley Roberts, Fort Worth, Tex., as Ruth, the wife; David Gledhill, Richfield, as Charles, the husband; Chet Harris, Independence, Mo., and Marjorie Thompson, Aberdeen, Ida., as Dr. and Mrs. Bradman, friends of Ruth and Charles; Lorna Erickson, Richland, Wash., as Madame Arcati, the medium; and Florence Stocks, Long Beach, Calif., as Elvira, the spirit.

Soph Loan Fund Theme Chosen

"Dream land of Oz" has been selected as the theme for the Sophomore Loan Fund drive, announced Pat Pomeroy, sophomore class president. The event will take place Saturday, Nov. 17. The dance will be held in both the social hall and the Joseph Smith ballroom.

Boyd Dyer has been chosen dance chairman. Committee members are: decorations, Brant Tintruim; refreshments, Trilby Packard; intermission, Jon Katzenbach.

Sophomore Loan Fund Drive assembly will be Thursday, Nov. 15, with Don Oscarson, chairman. Committee members are: Beverly Boyack, JoAnne Milligan, and Rogene Ball.

Queen election chairman is Morris Jackman. Marilyn Johnson is ticket salesman and Dick Devey is publicity chairman.

Danforth Fellowship Available to Seniors

Fellowships for college seniors and recent graduates who are preparing for a teaching career on either the college or high school level are being offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, announced Dr. Asahel D. Woodruff, dean of the graduate school.

The fellowships will be granted on the basis of need and deep religious conviction. Amounts will vary from $500 to $2400. Application blanks are available in Dr. Woodruff's office.

Official Nameplate For BYU Autos Go on Sale Friday

Dubbed "a gigantic sale of sales," official BYU automobile license nameplates will go on sale tomorrow and Saturday, according to Sandy Walker, AMS president. The AMS organization is conducting the sale.

An insignificant investment, if the old jalopy perks at all, Prexy Walker stated that there are "scads" of plates available for only 75 cents a shot. Sale booths will be located at the bookstore, fieldhouse, Smith building lobby, and a downtown booth will be located in front of Nate Morgan's Jewelry.

"A must for the car of distinction," Walker emphasized that profits from the nameplate sale will be turned over to the fieldhouse fund.

Walker emphasized that this isn't a contribution, but a fair exchange.

Redskins, Farmers Clash At Logan

by Ted Johnson

Two of the season's most colorful and traditional gridiron clashes will get underway Saturday afternoon in the Beehive State.

Topping the list for BYU fans will be the traditional Homecoming game in the Y stadium where the Cougars will clash head-on with the Rams from Colorado A&M. Kickoff time will be 1:30.

The other major tilt of the day for Utah fans will find the surprising and victory-hungry Utah State Aggies and the tough University of Utah Redskins battling it out at the Homecoming game in the Farmers' stadium in Logan.

These games could prove to be the deciding factors in determining the outcome of the Skyline Conference title race.

The Cougars, still smarting from their beating last week at the hands of the Denver Pioneers, will go all-out to try to derail the rampaging A&M machine and provide a fitting climax to Homecoming activities.

The Aggies from Fort Collins will try to gain another victory and thus improve their chances of capturing championship honors this season. The Rams have yet to be beaten in conference play.

Perhaps the most important game from the standpoint of conference ratings will be the struggle at Logan. The Aggies, fresh from the surprising tie game with their fellow Farmers from Colorado and their win over Montana, will be out to make it two defeats in a row for the Utah Redskins, who were humbled by a strong Wyoming squad last Saturday. However, the 'Skins, with only two victories between them and the conference crown, will be fighting to get back in the win column. The Utah lads will be favored to take the tussle, but the Aggies should make it an exciting and hard fought affair.

One other conference game is scheduled with the Wyoming Cowboys traveling to Missoula to take on the Grizzlies of Montana. The Cowboys rolled over Utah 13-0 last week and should not have too hard a time with the hapless Grizzlies who lost a 19-6 tilt to the Utah State squad at Logan in their last appearance.

Other games in the West will find New Mexico and Arizona battling in Tucson, UCLA tackling California, Oregon meeting Idaho, Washington versus Oregon State, Stanford against Washington State, and Colorado will take on Iowa State.
